

CONTROL OF OPERATIONS AGAINST INSURGENCY

(Operational Considerations)

Col. Assoc. Prof. Emil Enev, PhD.

Abstract: The aim of radicalization and resistance is a political change through a mixture of subversive activity, propaganda and military pressure. They are designed to persuade or intimidate a broad mass of people to accept such a change. By themselves, they are almost always associated with organized armed political struggle, the goals of which can be varied. Some resistance movements aim to directly seize power through a revolutionary movement, while others try to break away from state control and create an autonomous state within traditional ethnic or religious boundaries. How should the state react and how to use the military instrument of its power in such conditions?

Key words: minority, radicalization, resistance, threats, security.