

THE INITIATIVE - ESSENCE, MASTERING, WITHSTANDING, DEPRIVATION - WAYS AND APPROACHES

Emil Enew

Abstract: To solve permanent and consistently occurring problems is a characteristic of the human activities. More of people successfully deal with their solution, while others have difficulty and fail. The successful personalities seeks to accumulate and summarize their own experience and the other people experience in solving problems, or better to prevent their occurrence. In order to solve specific problems, they need specific knowledge. In some cases, they have to be professionals in - depth of the problem. In other cases, the individual (the leader) needs energy, a huge degree of desire and wide abilities to change the situation. The question is about changing a capacity of human independence or the systems managed by human being. This relates with the ability to change states, passive and active adaptation, regardless of whether the problems are described as elementary or as a complex. To be prepared to do this the commander must inspire sufficiently into to understand him, so that he can make a decision, to lead the process operation. He must do this in the context of competition, violence and a threat to his and the life of his subordinates. Moreover, to guide so he have to be at least two steps before of his opponents. How is this happening?

Key words: initiative, knowledge, cognition, understanding, surprise, deception, asymmetry, competition.
